T&J ELECTRIC PROFILE

T&J Electric manufactures one in six of every low-voltage electrical socket and switch sold in the UK market today. T&J is also the leading wiring accessory supplier to the most well-known European DIY chain stores.

T&J built this successful business in the highly competitive UK market over the past 15 years in cooperation with leading European product designers, electrical engineers and a marketing team that established an extensive UK national distribution network.

In addition to our documented success in Europe, T&J Electric was already supplying a large market share in the Mideast and African markets with our consistently high-quality economy grade wiring accessories.

After our major successes in the UK, Africa and the Mideast, T&J expanded further by entering the Asian and Latin American markets with our premium product range that includes switch plates made from urea, polycarbonate, glass, stainless steel and aluminium. These wall plates are also available in a wide variety of finishes and almost any colour imaginable.

T&J continues to expand our product line with the introduction of international standard switch and socket designs for the Italian, Australian, German, Russian, South African and American markets that fully complement our highly-respected British standard core products, all in compliance with strict IEC requirements and satisfying national standards / certification boards.

Today T&J is one of the most widely-respected switch and socket manufacturers in the world, plus we now manufacture a complete range of compact fluorescent lamps, down lights, fluorescent fixtures, cable clips, ballasts, intelligent systems, customised plates and a complete line of hotel products.

T&J has an extensive international sales network with key offices and warehouses in Europe, Singapore, Dubai, Africa and Hong Kong working closely to fully support our trusted partners in over 75 countries. The number of satisfied T&J Electric customers grows each passing year due to our superior customer service and dedication to developing innovative new high-quality products for both residential / commercial applications.

T&J Electric international is committed to providing comprehensive customer service and strives to deliver high-quality products to project customers all over the world.

T&J is a world leader in the business of outfitting top-grade hotels that include all the famous international chains with key cards, shaver sockets, "do not disturb" indicators multimedia hubs and other bespoke (customized) products demanded by 5 star luxury hotels. T&J has also supplied high-end residential developments, governmental buildings and large commercial projects with wiring accessories, lighting products and intelligent systems. With our wide range of switch plate designs and multitude of modular components we can supply the most basic project to most extravagant palace. Our superior customer service has helped us win some high-profile projects throughout the world; satisfying extremely demanding clients. Our project expertise is well recognized and we will be pleased to offer a long list of project references. T&J has experienced great success in the projects business due to our quick response to special product requests, on-time delivery, defect-free products and competitive high value products.
